Sun in Capricorn/Moon in Libra:

Blueblood

You continually search for serenity and somehow you feel those around you can work out the complicated puzzle of your being. You are persistently active, romantically as well as socially, and always seeking some club, philosophy, or individual that will give the inner balance you crave so much. You may constantly have your heart broken in your mission, becoming disenchanted and maybe even bitter as you learn that others cannot always live up to your expectations. You may seem hard, detached, and determined, but deep inside lies a kind, understanding, and very benevolent person. You are a very responsive and optimistic Capricorn, but not as astute as most Capricorns, and your faith in people is so great that it might be a problem. It is only within yourself that true harmony and peace of mind can come. Rather than looking for it elsewhere, try putting some confidence in yourself. Learn to appreciate who you are, and build up a more independent outlook. Your combination has a conflict resulting from strong personal aspirations and Libra's desire to be loved and valued. Even if it is at the expense of your own happiness, you want to see everyone be happy. You are also a little shy about putting yourself forward or giving expression to your ideas and aspirations. You have strong creative needs and a sophisticated aesthetic sense, but for the Capricorn-Libra wisdom rests in self-contemplation and courage; the courage to let your excellent Capricorn strength realize your ideas. You are inclined to idealize your partner and you are very romantic. Make your relationship one that is sensible and healthy because they are extremely important to you. In addition to material qualities in a partner, look for spiritual qualities as well, when choosing a person who intends to remain with you. Always have self-confidence. You act as though someone was watching you, ready to strike and punish you for such assumptions. Eventually you may be very let down in yourself because your fears may cause you to suppress your ambitions. Oddly enough, you are afraid you will infringe on people if you press on too far. Affirmation instead of self-renunciation is your challenge in life. A self- defeatist attitude can smother your artistic urges if you are not careful.
